

Late Registration Closes November 9 for ISN's Nexus Symposium on Hypertension and the Kidney

Dear Professor,

A few days remain before late registration closes November 9 for ISN's Nexus Symposium on Hypertension and the Kidney, to be held November 29 – December 2, 2007 in Vienna.

Register today at <http://www.associationhq.com/ISN/nexus/hypertension/pages/reginfo.html> to take advantage of lower registration rates and join nephrologists, hypertensiologists, cardiologists and endocrinologists to get the latest scientific and clinical insights into the kidney-hypertension link, and to review Arthur C. Guyton's "infinite gain" theory.

Complete information about the scientific program and the panel of speakers can be found at: <http://www.isn-online.org/nexus/hypertension>

The ISN Nexus Symposium on Hypertension and the Kidney has been granted accreditation by the European Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education, and it is designated for up to 12 hours of European external CME credits.

To learn more on how to earn valuable CME credits by attending this ISN Nexus Symposium, kindly visit: <http://www.associationhq.com/ISN/nexus/hypertension/pages/accreditation.html>

We look forward to receiving your registration and to welcoming you in Vienna.

Yours Sincerely,

Friedrich Luft (Germany)

Giuseppe Mancia (Italy)

Bernard Rossier (Switzerland)

Nexus Co-Chairs

Should you require any additional information or have any specific queries, please do not hesitate in contacting the ISN's Nexus Symposia Manager, Michael Podt, directly: Tel: +32 2 743 1546, Fax: +32 2 743 1550, Email: info@isn-online.org